ALUMNI NEWSLETTER

SPRING 2013

ALUMNI IN ACTION

After working in nonprofit development, completing a Master's in Public Administration and traveling around the world, Rachel Bryan '07 is currently the Southeast Florida Spay and Neuter Coalition Coordinator at the Humane Society of Broward County in Fort Lauderdale. Rachel credits her work in the major with giving her the analytical and communication skills to succeed professionally. See how, here.

CLASS NOTES – See what your classmates are up to! And, if you want to submit updates regarding a birth, marriage or a professional move, contact us.

COLLEGE of
CHARLESTON
DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY
AND ANTHROPOLOGY

» George Dickinson (khaki pants) instructs class on campus.

FACULTY FOCUS

Unlike medical doctors, veterinarians are regularly asked to assist with decision-making regarding euthanasia. George Dickinson knows all about this. He's just completed a study of veterinarians across South Carolina and veterinary medicine schools across the U.S., examining their outlook on end-of-life issues. This semester, he's heading to England to tackle that same topic. Why study vets? Click here and find out.

REAL WORLD SOCIOLOGY

You wouldn't think a sociology major might end up working in information technology - or winning an Emmy - but that's what happened for Jason Chan '97. Now a Cloud Security Architect at Netflix, he says his humanities degree opened his eyes to how the world works and continues to help him integrate with people from a variety of backgrounds. Check it out.

» STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

When Jenna Barbaruolo '13 went looking for an internship in the field last year, Ann Stein helped her discover the Charleston-based Center for Women. That was right up her alley. And when she discovered that sociology grad Amanda Comen Bunting '01 works there as the center's Interactive Media Manager, the fit was even better - see why.
