ANTH 110: Introduction to Forensic Anthropology

TR 9:25-10:40am  Instructor: Dr. Suzanne Abel  CRN#12135
TR 10:50-12:05pm  Instructor: Dr. Suzanne Abel  CRN#13151

This course provides a broad overview of forensic anthropology – an applied field of biological anthropology. Forensic anthropology is the application of the science of physical/biological anthropology to the legal process. Forensic anthropologists work to determine the age, sex, ancestry, stature, and unique features of a decedent from the skeleton. While proficiency in forensic methods will not be the focus of this course, general identification techniques will be addressed.

ANTH 115: Introduction to Cultural Sustainability

* requires permission from instructor

TR 10:50-12:05pm  Instructor: Dr. Christine Finnan  CRN#13536
TR 1:40-2:55pm  Instructor: Dr. Christine Finnan  CRN#12137

Students are introduced to the concept of cultural sustainability and how it intersects with ecological, economic, and social dimensions of sustainability in both current and historical contexts. Students explore current efforts to sustain cultural heritage sites, lifeways, and practices and are challenged to consider issues such as social justice, power imbalances, and environmental justice in relation to cultural sustainability.

ANTH 201: Cultural Anthropology

MW 2:00-3:15pm  Instructor: Dr. Can Dalyan  CRN#10927
MW 3:25-4:40pm  Instructor: Dr. Can Dalyan  CRN#13152

A comparative review of the principles used in social organization among various peoples of the world. Non-Western societies and their transformations through contact with the West will be examined.

ANTH 202: Introduction to Archaeology

OSM-MW 2:00-3:15pm  Instructor: Professor Corey Heyward  CRN#13501

An introduction to basic theory and methods in the archaeological recovery and interpretation of past cultural remains. The Honors version of this course is HONS 168. Students may not receive credit for both.

ANTH 203: Intro to Biological Anthropology

TR 1:40-2:55pm  Instructor: Dr. Allison Foley  CRN#11323
TR 3:05-4:20pm  Instructor: Dr. Allison Foley  CRN#11422

An introduction to the study of human evolution including a survey of human variation, our relationship to other primates and the interaction of biology and culture.
ANTH 309: ST: Bioarchaeology
MW 3:25-4:40pm  Instructor: Professor Joanna Gilmore  CRN#13450
Bioarchaeology uses biological information gleaned from human remains combined with archaeological evidence and the broader context in which they were found to deepen our understanding of people in past societies. The course will explore methods used to reconstruct diet, health and disease, activity, identity, demography, mobility, and ancestry, in order to create individual life histories.

ANTH 328: Aztecs, Mayas, and their Ancestors
Online Full Term  Instructor: Dr. Barbra Borg  CRN#11886
This course is a multi-disciplinary approach to the study of Mesoamerica (Mexico and Central America) up to, and including, the arrival of the Spaniards in 1519. Although beginning with the peopling of this hemisphere, the emphasis is on the advanced civilizations of the Olmec, Teotihuacanos, Zapotec, Mixtec, Maya and Aztec.

ANTH 342: Human Behavior and Evolution
TR 3:05-4:20pm  Instructor: Dr. Hector Qirko  CRN#13153
This course examines human behavioral diversity from an evolutionary perspective including topics such as human behavioral ecology, parental investment, paternal certainty, menopause, senescence, health and illness and religion.

ANTH 347: Introduction to Museum Studies
MW 2:00-3:15pm  Instructor: Professor Joanna Gilmore  CRN#12136
Through the collection, preservation and exhibition of artifacts, scientific specimens, art and technology, museums are used to shape our understanding of humanity and our world. Surveys show that most visitors trust museums and believe that they are neutral*. Students in this class will be provided with the skills to argue that museums are not neutral; that they are political and situated within a specific time and place. Furthermore, museums are uniquely positioned to act as agents of change in their communities. We explore questions such as what are the challenges that museums face in encouraging discourse about meaning, identity, and sense of place? What is the effect that this work has on museum communities? You will be able to use communication and learning theories to inform discussions about increasing access to heritage for diverse audiences. You will gain a practical understanding of the importance of audience research and evaluation. This knowledge will enable you to identify and evaluate different tools for interpretation, including objects, space, text, interactive media, artwork and human resources.

ANTH 492: Seminar in Anthropology
